COUNTY ELECTION COMMISSIONERS CHOSEN

Will G. McClintock, Democrat, and J. S. Taylor, Republican, were named County Election Commissioners for Bourbon county in the list of Commissioners selected at Frankfort, Friday, by the State Election Board. The commissioners elected at this meeting will name the county officers to conduct the November regular election and the primary election in 1923.

In several counties, especially in the Tenth and Eleventh Congressional districts, the two Republican members of the commission, Roy Speck, chairman, and J. M. Perkins, out voted the Democratic member, Dr. John Stout, of Danville, and named the Democratic election commissioners.

Mrs. Annie Shanks Bourne, who was Democratic commissioner for Henry county last year, was re-appointed. She is the only woman election commissioner in the State and the only woman ever appointed to this post in Kentucky.

FIRE DAMAGES TENTH STREET SHOP

Damage approximating $750 was sustained in a fire at midnight Saturday, which partly destroyed a frame building on Tenth street. The house was occupied by Phil Hopkins, as a barber shop, and is owned by Judge H. Clay Howard.

The department was called by an alarm from Box 26, but by the time they reached the scene the house was practically destroyed. The cause of the fire was undetermined. The neighboring property, endangered for a while, was saved without damage. The loss on the building is fully covered by insurance.

PROBABLE STARTERS IN GUBERNATORIAL RACE

Much speculation has been indulged in recently regarding probable candidates for the Democratic nomination for Governor. In this connection, the name of James H. Thompson, of Bourbon county, has been given prominent and favorable mention. Under the head of "The Democratic Nomination For Governor," the Mt. Sterling Sentinel-Democrat pays the following compliment to Mr. Thompson, and to Mr. Will E. Simms, of Woodford county, a former resident of Paris:

JAMES H. THOMPSON

"Much has been said in the papers of the State regarding the next Democratic nominee for Governor and many splendid men suggested for this important place. The Sentinel-Democrat is not pledged or obligated to any man and it shall be our endeavor to present to our readers from time to time what information we can glean regarding those who aspire to this high office or who have been suggested as candidates. We want to see in the Governor's chair, a business man of education, a man interested in good roads and good schools and lastly a man who has no further political aspirations, but who will be satisfied to retire after his term as Governor has expired.

"Among those suggested have been Congressman A. W. Barkley, Congressman W. J. Fields, Congressman J. Campbell Cantrill, Hon. Charles Marvin, Hon. William E. Simms, Hon. James H. Thompson, Hon. J. N. Camden, Editor Desha Breckinridge, Editor Harry A. Sommers, Judge Charles N. Harding, Hon. Thomas A. Combs, Judge W. R. Shackelford and Judge Charles C. Thomas.

"Among those mentioned in the State press as probable starters for the Democratic nomination for Governor has often been suggested the name of Hon. Will E. Simms, of Woodford county.

"Mr. Simms, a graduate of Yale, a man of means, a successful farmer and a gentleman of most pleasing personality, would no doubt make a splendid race. For many months he has been giving his time toward perfecting the Tobacco Growers' Co-operative Association and has made numerous speeches throughout the State and it is from the people and not the politicians that men such as Will Simms will receive support.

"One of the outstanding figures of the last session of the General Assembly was Hon. James H. Thompson, of Bourbon county, Speaker of the House of Representatives. As Speaker his rulings were always fair and clean, his conduct above reproach, his courtesy unflinching and one would often hear the expression 'we need a man like Jim Thompson in the Governor's chair.'

"We have heard a number of men mentioned for the Democratic nomination for Governor and know of no one that would fill the office more acceptably than he. Born on a farm in Montgomery county, he moved to Bourbon county when quite a young man, where he has since resided. While he has represented his county twice as a member of the Legislature, he could in no sense be termed a politician because on both occasions he has been practically drafted for service by his party and was nominated and elected without opposition.

"As a business man and farmer he has been a success and his interest in the welfare of the farmer was proven by his labors in behalf of a fair and just tax law for the owners of real property and we doubt if there is a better posted man in the State on matters of taxation than Mr. Thompson.

"A man of the people, interested in rendering some real service to the State, with no selfish interests to serve and no further political ambitions to gratify he would make a candidate any right-thinking, Kentucky-loving citizen could fearlessly and conscientiously support. We do not know whether Mr. Thompson is

PRESBYTERIANS OPEN CAMPAIGN IN BOURBON COUNTY

The Presbyterians of Paris have opened their campaign for Christian Education. This is a part of the Statewide movement for $1,000,000 for Centre College; the Presbyterian Theological Seminary; Kentucky College for Women; Witherspoon College; Pikeville College; Lees College; Institute; Matthew T. Scott, Jr., Academy; Sayre School, and the Presbyterian Orphanage at Anchorage.

About forty Presbyterian officers and their wives, and several guests attended the Blue Hue dinner Monday evening at the First Presbyterian church at six-thirty o'clock, when Dr. John C. Acheson, President of the Kentucky College for Women, and Dr. John M. Vander Meulen, President of the Theological Seminary, spoke on Christian education. Both are widely known throughout Kentucky as authorities on Christian education. A number of other prominent Presbyterians were called during the evening. At the Blue Hue dinner the plans of the campaign in Paris, and just what the cause means to the Presbyterian churches here and throughout the State, were explained by Paul Harris, Jr., of Louisville.

This Blue Hue dinner is a special feature of the campaign and marks the actual beginning of the intensive work necessary in a cause of this kind, according to Mr. E. R. Pike, who is in charge of the work.

The active co-operation of the women of the Presbyterian church has been secured, and they did much, through Mrs. J. T. Tadlock, chairman, to make the dinner a success. The musical program was under the direction of Miss Elizabeth Crutcher.

The active committees have been appointed by those in charge of the Presbyterian movement for Christian education—a woman's committee and a committee in charge of the four-minute speakers. Serving under Mrs. J. T. Tadlock, chairman of the Woman's Committee, are a number of sub-chairmen, as follows: Prayer, Mrs. Charles Butler and Mrs. R. J. Neely; Census, Mrs. J. T. Vansant; Special Program, Mrs. T. S. Smylie; Life Enlistment, Mrs. J. Simms Wilson; Organization, Mrs. Owen L. Davis.

The four-minute men will present the case at all church services. This committee is headed by Owen L. Davis, and serving with him are Judge E. M. Dickson, Claude M. Thomas, C. B. Mitchell, M. P. Collier and Robert Meteer.

"HEAD OVER HEELS" WITH MABEL NORMAND

No actress on the screen to-day has enjoyed the vicissitudes of her success more than the ebullient Mabel Normand, who will be seen in her newest Goldwyn photoplay, "Head Over Heels," at the Alamo and Grand this afternoon and night.

In her latest Goldwyn release, "Head Over Heels," she is cast as a foreign acrobat with a flaring temperament. And never one in the course of her encounters with the representatives of a strange civilization, does she balk at being the circus performer to the life. However, there are gentle moments also for Miss Normand in this photoplay, for the ignorant acrobat blossoms into a sweet girlish personality whose lovely eyes and captivating manner have much to do with solving the problem of her career.

As usual, Mabel Normand is supported by an excellent cast, including Hugh Thompson, Russ Powell, Raymond Hatton and Lilyan Tashman.

even considering running or not, but if he should make the race he has a host of friends here in old Montgomery who would go their limit for him."

THE STRIKE SITUATION

Attempts to end the rail shopmen's strike by separate settlements with individual roads failed and conferences were broken off in New York.

In announcing the breaking off of negotiations, David Williams, head of the Eastern strike committee, said:

"Nothing else could have happened. If they'll quit fussing around we'll beat these fellows."

A statement by the executives representing fifty-two main and subsidiary lines with 85,000 miles of track, who had attended the latest conferences, disclaimed any desire to take advantage of the strike situation to curtail the "pension or privileges" which had been earned by the strikers before quitting and expressed a willingness to restore all strikers with pension privileges unimpaired.

From unofficial sources it was learned that the breakup came when labor men rejected a proposal advanced by the roads which was regarded by executives as representing a big concession.

At labor headquarters, where it was said the unions were prepared for a fight-to-the-finish, telegrams were being dispatched all over the country, calling upon strikers to renew the struggle with redoubled vigor.

D. A. R. TRIP TO FRANKFORT THURSDAY

Have you ever visioned the beauties of the Kentucky River from the deck of a slow-moving steamer, or from a comfortable seat on a barge, as they floated tranquilly along? Have you ever made one of these trips? If you have not, then the chance will be afforded you on Thursday, when the Jemima Johnson Chapter, D. A. R., will promote a round-trip to Frankfort and a ride up the river.

The big barge, towed by a river steamer, will leave Frankfort at ten o'clock on the morning of Thursday, August 31, for the trip. Those who have viewed the ever-changing beauties of the river and its environments need not be told of its wonders, but to those who have never been there it will be a revelation of beauty. The journey to Frankfort may be made by the L. & N., the Interurban, or by motor car, arriving in time to join the party. The round trip will cost only one dollar. Those intending to make the trip should provide themselves with a box lunch, which can be served on the upper deck of the barge.

The proceeds will be used by the local D. A. R. Chapter in purchasing a marker to mark the grave of Squire Boone, brother of Kentucky's noted pioneer, Daniel Boone, which has been located on a farm on the Little Rock pike, near Paris. The Chapter also aims to purchase a bronze tablet, bearing names of all the Revolutionary soldiers from Bourbon county, to be placed in a conspicuous place in the Bourbon county court house, as soon as permission can be obtained.

All members of the D. A. R., their friends, and their friends, or any others can spend a most enjoyable day by making this trip, which will be one of great interest to them. Pack up your old lunch box, lay aside all your business and social cares, and go to Frankfort on the D. A. R. trip Thursday.
